Budget Message Charges Red Rulers Pushing the World To 'Brink of General Conflict'

Washington, April 30—(AP)—President Truman today sent congress a $60,679,414,690 defense budget and said Russia's rulers have pushed the world "to the brink of a general war."

The huge requested appropriation is for the United States' own military costs and to help arm its allies.

The message broke down in more detail the military estimates included in Mr. Truman's general budget, sent to congress in January, for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Officials Confer On Procedure of MacArthur Hearing

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Senators planning an inquiry into President Truman's firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur meet today to decide on procedure—including whether the sessions will be open to the public.

Indications were that a decision on that point would be made by a close vote, but the best guess appeared to be that the investigation would be held behind closed doors, with the public and press barred.

It was agreed, however, that if the deposed five-star general personally asks for a public hearing on his initial statement, scheduled for Thursday, it will be granted. He plans to fly to Washington for the hearing and return to New York City the same day.

Meanwhile there was no word from President Truman on Harold E. Stassen's suggestion for a "reconciliation" with MacArthur "for the good of America."

Stassen, now president of the University of Pennsylvania, urged such a truce Saturday. He left a letter for Mr. Truman at the White House. The White House said it had the letter but had no comment.

Stassen, in a statement last night, said he was encouraged by the response to his suggestion. He added he will follow up and hopes to have "the support of a majority of the Republican senators for a meeting of President Truman and General MacArthur during this week."

The decision on the public versus executive sessions was to be made by the 25 senators on the armed services and foreign relations committees.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the armed services group, who is slated to head the joint investigation, called the closed planning session.

Russell has contended the inquiry must be closed to the public to avoid possible exposure of military strategy.

TRAFFIC FATALITIES

Pittsburgh, April 30—(AP)—Two Pittsburgh district men were killed in week-end traffic accidents. John W. Matey, 80, of West View, died less than 24 hours after he was hit by an auto on Route 19 near Perryville. Norman Williams, 55, of Braddock, was crushed to death by a train at the Seventh Street crossing of the Pennsylvania and Lake Erie Railroad in Braddock.

Sale of Piso Company Building On Island to Silver Lamp Co. Completed

Sale of the Piso Company building on the Mill Race Island to the Silver Lamp Co. of North Warren was completed today. The transaction was handled through Redding and McIntyre, local real estate brokers, and the sale price was reported in the neighborhood of $30,000.

Silver Lamp Company, which is operated by Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Wettlaufer, of 119 North Parker street, will move its entire North Warren operation to the Piso building. Silver Lamp will take possession of its new plant in about 30 days. Its production facilities for fluorescent fixtures and silvered lamps for other companies will be tripled.

Henry R. Fisher, owner of Piso Company, which was established here in 1864, said his company's principal product, "Piso's For Coughs", will be assigned to chemists skilled in the manufacture of medicinal products. The Piso Company, however, will continue to distribute the product, which is sold in drug stores throughout the country.

CAR ROLLS OVER

State police said that a car, operated by Dorothy Kuhns, of North Warren, left the road and rolled over on Route 6 near Youngsville early yesterday morning. No one was injured in the accident. Damage to the car was estimated at $350.

AGREEMENT REACHED

A satisfactory agreement was reached over the weekend in wage negotiations involving employees and management of the Warren Baking Company, it was announced today.

Crime Committee's Report Due Tuesday

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Hints of possibly sensational accusations are piling up in advance of the scheduled release tomorrow of the senate crime committee's report on its nationwide investigation of racketeering.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) said yesterday he expects "several prominent men in New York" to be indicted as a result of the committee's revelations. "I hope and pray so, for they're guilty as hell," he added.

And the committee's chief counsel, Rudolph Halley, indicated the report may carry some sharp criticism of former New York Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Former President Urges Liquidation Of R. F. C. Agency

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover said today the Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) should be liquidated, largely because its original purpose has become "submerged in support of risky business."

He said "favoritism and corruption" have been demonstrated in its operation.

Hoover, who recently urged that the RFC be abolished, appeared before the senate banking committee to tell the reasons behind his view.

In a statement prepared for the committee, he said:

"I believe that the RFC should be liquidated. x x x
"I believe some facilities for loans in the small business field should be continued under other organizations."

Small business loans, the former president said, should be taken over by the federal reserve banks.

Hoover is one of a number of witnesses called by the committee, which is trying to decide what to do about the RFC.

Police Lieutenant Wounded by Wife

Pittsburgh, April 30—(AP)—Police Lieutenant Frank J. McNicholas was shot four times early today and Police Inspector Fred Good said the wounded man named his wife as his assailant.

McNicholas, 56, is in South Side hospital in a critical condition. He was wounded before dawn in the living room of the couple's west end home.

Good told this story of the shooting:

"The lieutenant was shot as his wife stood in a doorway eight feet away. One of the five 38 caliber bullets fired narrowly missed his head. The others struck him in the right side and wrist. The wounded man told police he jumped from the chair when he saw his wife with a gun in her hand. The shots rang out before he could reach her."

Good quoted the wife as telling him that she had accused her husband of keeping company with another woman and that a quarrel followed. The couple has been married 12 years. Each was married twice before.

Electrical Storms Blaze Wide Swath Following Hottest Day of the Season

By The Associated Press
Pennsylvania had its hottest day of the spring season yesterday—and one of the stormiest.

Mose of the state enjoyed a foretaste of midsummer, with temperatures running well into the eighties.

By late evening, however, rain had come to many sections, and electrical storms blazed a wide swath of damage. At least one death was caused by lightning. David Leonard Evans, of Altoona, was killed while fishing near Milesburg.

In Erie, a fire believed to have started from a bolt of lightning destroyed the 12th street market, a block square building housing more than 60 food merchants.

In Schuylkill county, lightning struck and set fire to a two-family home in Cressona. Several persons, among them three small children, were put to flight from their burning apartments.

A large barn on farm property near Schuylkill Haven also was set aflame.

Considerable damage to roads and early crops also was reported. Lightning disabled the McKeesport radio for about an hour.

TEN ARE DEAD IN CRASH OF RUNAWAY BUS

Weirton, W. Va., April 30—(AP)—A runaway bus pitched down a mile-long hill yesterday and crashed into a concrete wall, taking the lives of ten persons.

Just before the horrifying smashup, the driver, George Kraina, 35, cried to his church-bound passengers:

"Hang on everybody! We're going to crash!"

Those were his last words. He was dead when pulled from the twisted wreckage of the bus.

Some of the nine passengers were killed outright. Others died a short time afterward. Of the 65 persons aboard, 46 were injured. At least three, including a child, were reported in critical condition.

Police said there were no eye-witnesses and no indication of how fast the bus was running.

Most of the passengers were enroute from their homes in suburban Weirton Heights to downtown Weirton where they were to attend mass at St. Paul's Catholic church.

This is what happened, a patrolman declared:

The bus was proceeding normally near the top of the hill when it suddenly picked up speed. Kraina was unable to stop on the windy hill—so steep that most autos ascend in second gear.

Former Pastor at Sugar Grove Dies

Word was received in Warren over the weekend of the death and funeral of the Rev. Mark H. Parry, Ridgway, a former pastor of Sugar Grove Methodist church and member of the Warren County Ministerial Association.

Mr. Parry died at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in Elk County Memorial Hospital in Ridgway of virus pneumonia and complications following an attack of influenza. Services were held in his church, the Trinity Methodist, at Ridgway on Saturday afternoon.

A graduate of Pennsylvania State College, where he was a trustee of the Wesley Foundation, he received his theological degree at Drew University, Boston. He has served pastorates in Titusville, Clarion, Shippensburg, Sugar Grove, Oil City and Ridgway during his 18 years in the ministry. Since going to the last named charge, he had served on the conference board of education, board of ministerial training and qualifications, historical committee and the newly-formed committee on public relations.

Surviving are his wife and three daughters, Barbara Jeanne, Ann Noreen and Susan.

CANCER CRUSADE REPORTS COMING IN

Olive Phillips, general chairman for the Warren Business and Professional Women's Club-sponsored Cancer Crusade Tag Days in Warren borough on Friday and Saturday, reports an approximate $700 realized in the street sales.

Reports from county communities are not expected to be received in full until later in the week, since some of the smaller towns are continuing their house-to-house solicitation today and tomorrow.

Gifts are still being received by the Warren County Unit and will be included in the efforts to reach the $5,000 goal set for Warren county.

Senate Fight Shapes Up Over Measure Postponing State Clean Stream Program

Harrisburg, April 30—(AP)—Tax problems took a back seat in the general assembly today as a fight shaped up in the senate over a move to postpone new construction under the state's clean streams program.

The senate fight loomed as both houses returned to the capitol for late afternoon sessions after a week's recess.

The legislature met only briefly last Monday and then recessed for the rest of the week because of the death of Mrs. John S. Fine, wife of the governor.

Senate Democrats meanwhile served notice they would oppose a bill, up for a final vote in the senate, which would allow a two-year extension on new sewage plant construction.

The measure would apply primarily to hard-pressed municipalities which have been ordered to build up new treatment plants under the billion-dollar stream cleanup program.

The bill also would excuse industrial firms from stream clearance construction during a "national emergency" and give them an additional two years to complete such projects after war-scarce materials were again made available.

Saturday evening, shortly after 10 o'clock, cars operated by Lyle James Slack, of Sloan, N. Y., and Jack C. Gregory, of Sugar Grove RD 3, collided on Pennsylvania avenue east in the 1200 block. No one was injured and police estimated damage at $250.

The accident occurred when Slack, driving east, attempted to pass Gregory as Gregory was about to negotiate a left turn into a private driveway.

Another accident, at 9 p. m. Saturday, occurred at Pennsylvania and South. The report has

Youngsville Resident Makes Second Bequest to Public Library Project

Youngsville's public library project, given such a handsome start a few weeks ago by the will of the late Mrs. Nora S. Russell, gets an additional bequest from the estate of Mrs. Belle Kay, filed for probate at the Court House on Friday.

Mrs. Kay leaves a lot on College avenue for the purpose of constructing a public library thereon; and in connection with this bequest, the sum of $2,000 is given to be applied upon the expense of the building. If the land and the money are not utilized for this express purpose within five years, the lot and the money will go to Mrs. Maye Hoover, of Youngsville.

To the school district of Youngsville boro, $10,000 is given, to be placed in the building fund of the school district toward the cost of a new school building, this gift in memory of her late husband, C. H. Kay.

Mrs. Kay also leaves $1,000 in trust for the Youngsville IOOF cemetery, to be used in care and maintenance of lots of her family there.

Her home on East Main street is bequeathed to Mrs. Maye Hoover, Mrs. Marian Sutton and Willis Kinnear. In addition, cash bequests are also left to these persons and Kathryn Agnew. Mrs. Euphemia Anderson, of Youngsville, receives $10,000 in cash.

Stock in Youngsville National Bank, owned by Mrs. Kay, is left in various proportions to Charles Spencer, Fred Beckenbach and Milton C. Kay. Practically all the remainder of Mrs. Kay's estate goes to Willis C. Kay.

The value of the estate is estimated at $60,000.

Commander of Allied Ground Forces Masses Artillery For Defense of the Historic City

Tokyo, April 30—(AP)—Allied artillery laid an explosive curtain of fire before Seoul today in the path of a gathering Red army intent on seizing the old South Korean capital as a May Day prize.

United Nations forces arrayed before the war-shattered city fired 45,709 rounds of artillery Sunday.

The booming echo of massed artillery implemented the announcement of Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Allied ground commander, that Seoul would be defended.

Chinese Communists poured down from the north for a mass assault. Airmen spotted 3,365 Red vehicles moving along the western front. Twenty thousand Communists were reported gathered as shock troops for the assault.

Only probing attacks were reported in the early hours Monday.

On Sunday Van Fleet announced his bold decision to defend Seoul. He plans a defense north of the city, not house-to-house street fighting.

General MacArthur and Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway had made no attempt to hold the city against the Chinese offensive earlier in the year. They said it was of no military importance.

But Van Fleet said Seoul has

Korean casualty lists released over the weekend by the Department of Defense include the name of Pvt. Richard J. Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Gregory, 89 West High street, Union City, killed in action; also Pfc. Robert L. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern E. Peters, 500 Colbert avenue, Oil City, wounded.

prestige as Korea's historic capital. He described the Segul area and the line of the Han river which flows south of the city as "vital and strategic."

U. N. forces, he said, "welcome the opportunity to destroy the Communist army north of the Han."

AP General Executive Frank H. King reported after Van Fleet's press conference that "United Nations forces will not be sacrificed unnecessarily" to hold Seoul.

One of Van Fleet's corps commanders said the final decision on whether his men hold the Han river "depends on what is thrown at us."

That comment came from Maj. Gen. William M. Hoge of the Ninth Corps, who said:

"We're in good shape with what we have, but could use more troops."

The Reds have plenty of reserves, despite 70,000 casualties suffered in their seven-day-old offensive.

The Red radio at Pyongyang reported Sunday midnight Communists were only seven and a half miles from Seoul.

Heavily censored field reports indicated they were much closer Monday. Censors blue-penciled all mileages.

Artillery and warplanes hampered the Reds.

Vogler and Family Are En Route By Plane to America

Vienna, Austria, April 30—(AP)—Robert A. Vogler and his family left Vienna by plane today for the United States.

The 39-year-old American businessman, released last Saturday, after 17 months in a Communist jail in Hungary, was taken to the airport with his family by Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly, U. S. high commissioner in Austria.

With his handsome Belgian-born wife, Lucille, her sister Pia, and the Voglers two sons, Bobby 11, and Billy, 9, Vogler boarded a Pan-American Airways plane at Tulln Airport, in the Soviet occupied zone of Austria.

Vogler mustered his shattered strength to deliver what he called "a message" to the American people yesterday before a television camera and microphone. He broke down once but insisted on continuing.

Vogler was so weak and nervous after that effort that he was forbidden to talk by telephone last night with his father, Willy R. Vogler in New York. His wife substituted for him on the telephone while he was put to bed with sedatives.

Today, however, after "a good

Fire Destroys Huge Erie Market House

Erie, April 30—(AP)—A fire in the heart of Erie's business district destroyed the 12th street Market that housed more than 60 food merchants in a block square building.

Eleven of the city's fire companies fought the blaze for more than two hours yesterday. A bolt of lightning is believed to have started the fire.

The damage is expected to run close to $2,000,000. The structure cost $1,250,000 when it was erected several years ago.

The two-story white brick building also housed a dozen shops which lined east 12th and French streets, along with a bowling alley and skating rink.

Four Bladed Order Designed to Trim Butcher Shop Prices Issued by O. P. S.

Washington, April 30—(AP)—The government has issued a new four-bladed order designed to trim—by Oct. 1—almost a dime a pound off the butcher shop price of beef.

The order begins working next month to clamp ceilings on the price of live cattle, and wholesale and retail prices of beef. This won't affect the consumer then.

But the announcement of the order, issued Saturday night, said retail prices will be cut from four to five cents a pound on Aug. 1 and again by the same amount on Oct. 1.

The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) estimated the new regulations will save the American public about $700,000,000 a year.

Here are the four links the price cleaver is due to deliver:

1. A 10 per cent cut in prices which slaughterers may pay the farmer for cattle. This goes into effect for accounting periods beginning on or after May 20.

2. Dollar and cents ceilings are fixed for wholesalers and retailers. Wholesale ceilings go into effect May 9; retail ceilings May 14. Butcher shops must post retail ceiling price charts, by grade and cut by June 4. The price ceilings vary by areas.

3. Cattle prices to slaughterers are to be reduced an additional four and one-half per cent on Aug. 1 and by the same amount on Oct. 1.

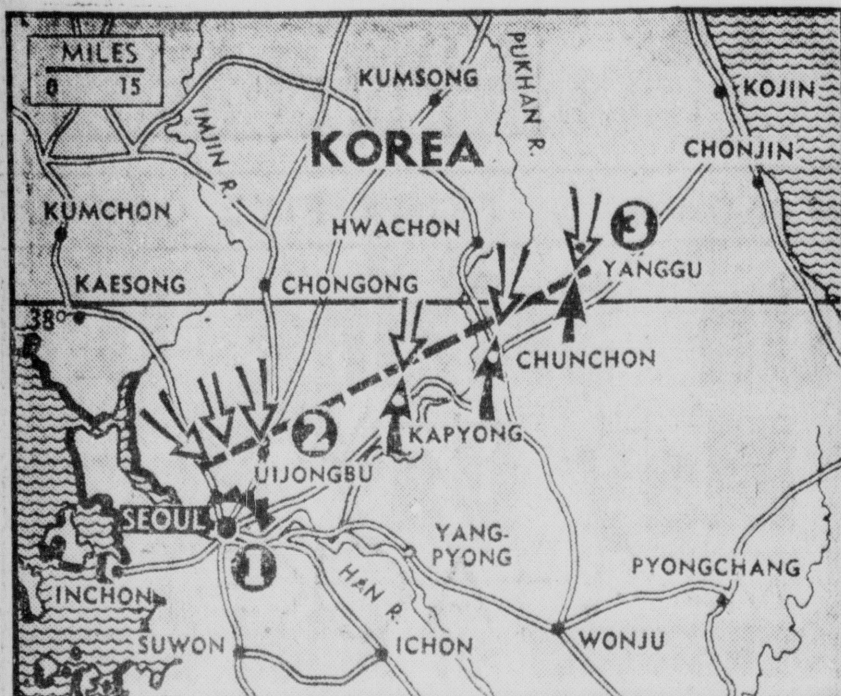

4. On the same dates, retail beef price reductions of from four to five cents a pound will go into effect—for a total rollback of about nine cents a pound.

St. Marys Motorists Have a Close Call

The Clarendon fire department speeded to the aid of a St. Marys family this morning about seven o'clock, when the motorists discovered the rear end of their car in flames, while driving toward Warren on U. S. Route 6, just west of Tiona.

The operator, George Feiley, 407 Rightmeyer street, St. Marys, told Chief Leonard Falbriski, of Clarendon, that he first noticed the back wheels seemed to be dragging, and when he investigated he discovered the rear part of the 1941 Chrysler was burning, evidently set afire by hot brakes on one of the wheels. His wife and young child, asleep in the back seat, escaped unharmed.

Twelve men turned out for the run to Tiona, and the damage was confined to the rear of the UN GUNS POUND ADVANCING REDS—Allied forces fell back into a tight defense area before Seoul (1) and poured artillery fire from its rubble streets into a Chinese siege army less than 11 miles away. The Eighth Army announced that the fall of Uijongbu (2) was imminent, but Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet said the Reds would be stopped north of the Han River which traverses Seoul. Red pressure forced UN troops to abandon Yanggu (3), the last major Allied foothold in North Korea. The front swings down (broken line) like a half opened door hinged north of the 38th parallel below Yanggu extending westward to a point above Seoul.

Feature of Mental Health Week Will Be Radio Program

The Pennsylvania Citizens' Association in cooperation with Radio Station WNAE will present a series of radio plays as part of National Mental Health Week. Beginning today the plays will deal with the Mental Health aspects of family life. The sketches show how some specific personality problems in families may be solved through effective use of non-psychiatric community resources. They attempt to provide listeners with ideas for solving the "little" problems of their daily lives . . . so that the little problems do not snowball into big ones requiring professional help.

The programs will be aired at 7:00 p. m. Monday through Saturday. A glance at the titles of the series will show the scope of the entire series.

The Bobbysoxer's Rebellion (Adolescent rebellion).

The School for Marriage (Attitudes toward marriage).

What Every Woman Wants (Care of the new-born).

Relax and Enjoy It (A social behavior in a 4 year old).

Daydreams Go to School (The shy child).

Somebody do Something! (Citizen action).

As the Kids Go (Juvenile Delinquency).

Everybody Gets Into the Act (Family reaction).

That's My Old Man! (The father-son relationship).

Sons and Husbands, (The Mother-in-law).

Each play is introduced by Eddie Albert, whose style of narration is in keeping with the jaunty, friendly title, Hi, Neighbor! Mr. Albert is well-known as a stage, screen and radio actor, singer, comedian and producer of educational films.

PENNSYLVANIA FARM ROUND-UP

Harrisburg—(AP)—The state's housewives may have more vegetables to can and freeze this year, but there may be less to buy for immediate use.

The state department of agriculture said today that early reports from commercial vegetable growers indicate the group is shifting the emphasis to answer the need for greater production of processed vegetables for the armed forces.

A federal-state survey shows that Pennsylvania growers intend to increase their acreage of snap beans for processing by 18 per cent over 1950. About 5,300 acres are to be planted, according to the survey. The national goal this year was for an increase of 10 per cent.

The amount of sweet corn to be grown will be 15 per cent more than in 1950 but 12 per cent under the average. Total acreage is expected to total 12,100. The national goal is for an increase of 40 per cent.

The intended acreage for straw-berries is estimated at 1,800 compared with 1,900 acres harvested last year and the 10-year average of 2,440 acres. A small percentage of Pennsylvania berries are frozen or made into preserves.

Growers of early fall cabbage set out about 2,500 acres this year compared with 2,600 harvested in 1950 and the average of 2,740 acres. The national goal was for a reduction of five per cent.

Producers of spring spinach for fresh market announce intentions to plant 2,700 acres this year, 600 more than 1950 and 500 above average. Yield per acre is estimated at 320 bushels, 60 more than last year, making a total crop of 864,000 bushels, 618,000 greater than in 1950.

The purchasing power of the farmer's dollar remained unchanged during March, Miles Horst, agriculture secretary reports.

Horst said slight advances in overall prices received by farmers were offset by increased prices they paid for farm operations.

A survey shows that the index of prices received by farmers advanced to 282, a two point in-

Enough ripe timber to build 200,000 five-room houses is locked up each year in your national forests, because this timber is located in back country, mostly in the West, where no logging roads reach into at present.

This unused timber amounts to one third of the annual productive capacity of the national forest lands. With the construction of access roads the annual production of timber could be increased from 4 billion board feet to 6 billion board feet.

Some 4,555 miles of main logging roads are needed to tap this unused timber, and most of the roads would be located in the "big timber" country of the Far West. Because of the rugged, mountainous country these roads would have to penetrate, the cost of construction would amount to about $20,000,000 a year over a five-year period. From these main haul roads needed under their timber purchase contracts.

The financing of these main haul roads by the government would be sound business from a fiscal standpoint, although even if it meant going into the red, which it wouldn't, the crying need for this timber for national defense would justify the construction of them.

The sale of two billion board feet of timber at current prices would bring into the Treasury about $20,000,000 a year or the annual cost of the road construction program. Allowing for the cost of administering the timber sale business the cost of the road construction would be paid for in six years.

Another important thing the tapping of this two billion feet of timber would accomplish would be the easing of the strain on private timber land much of which is being overcut today. Roughly

IN TRAINING FILM—William Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gray, Warren RD 3, was among a contingent of 400 Military Police from Camp Gordon, Ga., which recently spent about a month in Charleston, S. C., making an army training film which will teach soldiers their duties as members of occupation forces. The troops are members of the 504th MP Battalion and young Gray was one of those pictured in Charleston papers. Arriving back at Camp Gordon, they were honored with a great parade, Gray writes. His outfit, he says, has been selected as one of those to participate in Armed Forces Day parading on May 17.

Better Yield and Higher Profit from New Legumes

A slight increase in yield of forage, grain or seed per acre, in percentage of leaves to stems which means more protein, minerals and vitamins, in the productive life of plants, winter survival, disease and insect resistance, or any one of a number of other desirable traits will more than pay for the extra cost of improved seed.

Advantages of improved seed are evident, but since the farmer who sows improved seed is likely to use more fertilizer, better preparation of seedbed, and cultural practices, the gain derived solely from improved seed may not always be easily distinguished from other improvements.

Three of the newly introduced biennial varieties of sweet clover—Spanish, Madrid and Evergreen—which are superior for pasture use, have also given outstandingly large hay yields in the Central States than the older common white, common yellow, and Grundy County white. At Lincoln, Neb., Evergreen yielded 2.75 tons, Spanish 2.26 tons, and Madrid 2.03 tons in comparison with 1.89 tons for common white and 1.62 tons for common yellow. Similar increases were obtained at Columbus, O.; Manhattan, Kan., and elsewhere. The seed supply of Emerald, Evergreen, Spanish and Madrid varieties is still too limited for general distribution.

The two varieties of annual sweet clover—Hubam and Emerald—have been outstanding producers in the Southern states for spring and early summer grazing and for soil improvement.

Ladino clover, a variety of white clover, has recently attained prominence as a pasture plant. Its high carrying capacity for livestock and poultry, high nutritive value of the forage and adaptation give it a dominant position as a pasture crop. In its adapted area, under pasture conditions, it should be included in every pasture mixture.

With alfalfa, bacterial wilt has been reducing stands and shortening the life of Grimm, Baltic, Harigan, and others which are among our hardest varieties and formerly outstanding. Recently, plant breeders have developed two varieties, Ranger and Buffalo, which are equal or superior to the older ones in yield, and show high resistance to wilt. Fields of these varieties in wilt-infested areas will retain a good stand and remain productive years longer.

Seed of improved varieties or new discoveries and introductions of other forage crops, has been made available to farmers in recent years. Among these are Kenland red clover, Dixie crimson clover, Marietta, Lorain and Alaska timothy, Achenebach, Lincoln, Fisher, Martin and Manchaca brome grass, Alta and Kentucky-31 fescues, intermediate wheat grass, Tift, Sweet and No. 23 Sudan grass, and many others.

The seed of Marietta, Lorain and Alaska timothy is not yet readily available commercially.

The grassland farmer who wishes to make the most out of his pastures and meadows will keep on the lookout for improved varieties and new introductions of forage crops as they become available.

"LEAKS" ON WAR SECRETS TAKE LIVES

Basically, it does not matter whether the Senate hearings into the MacArthur controversy and our Far Eastern policy are open to the public or not. Past experience with closed sessions assures that most of what is said behind locked doors will find its way into print anyway.

The very vital question of military security thus cannot be solved simply by closing the committee room doors. Senators enjoy being privy to important secrets; they enjoy even more passing them on to reporters.

The temptation to leak out the big things buzzing in their heads or resting in their desk drawers is just too great for most of them. They seem to regard leaking vital information as one way of establishing or enhancing their own prestige.

In this particular instance, the urge is probably greater than ever. The MacArthur issue has stirred violent emotions on both sides. Antagonists are eager to throw into the balance of debate every scrap of evidence they can unearth.

The danger in this is plain. It is, as a well known editorial writer warns, that military security will suffer, and that American soldiers fighting in Korea will pay with their lives.

Developments in the MacArthur matter thus far do not encourage the hope that this peril will be averted without extreme consciousness of the problem. Up to this point, the administration has been the principal offender.

In an effort to prove General MacArthur's insubordination, it released details of numerous interchanges between Washington and the general during the final months of his command. Is there anyone who imagines the Russians and Chinese will not find it useful to know these things?

The lesson for the enemy is not in any particular detail, or even all the details. It's in disclosing how we think about certain problems, what procedures we follow, how we evaluate information. These are valuable guides to the Reds in weighing our probable future action in any situation.

By the same token, it was hardly wise to let a New York Times reporter gain access to documentary material about the Truman-MacArthur meeting at Wake Island last fall. To be sure, at least one columnist had published a similar version months before, but his account lacked the evident stamp of Administration sanction which the Times story bore.

Both the Administration and the members of the Senate must face the fact that, while a complete inquiry into our Far Eastern policy is desirable, it cannot be conducted at risk of American lives. If that means that certain vital documents must be kept secret to avoid giving the enemy useful information, then no other choice is possible.

A lot of the combatants in this new "great debate" want either to "get" Mr. Truman or to "get" MacArthur. It would be a profound tragedy if in their frenzied pursuit of these goals they allowed the Communists to "get" several thousand American G.I.'s on the battlefield.

DANGEROUS APATHY

It ought to be significant of something or other that our lawmakers in Washington cannot even agree these days on a dispersal program for the capital.

A plan was drawn up calling for removal of many thousands of government workers to outlying areas, on the theory that a capital so spread out would be a less vulnerable target in case of enemy air attack.

For half a dozen assorted reasons, the program bit the dust in the senate. Some lawmakers simply didn't like the particular plan, but they didn't offer any real alternatives.

Dispersal of government facilities vital to the continuance of the government in war or other crisis is not somebody's silly pipe dream. What do the senators propose? That the government stay highly concentrated until the bombs begin to fall?

Excepting for a few isolated incidents such as the clocks at the court house and the Bank & Trust Co., the change to fast time so far as Warren is concerned seems to have been made without serious confusion or annoyance!

Weather like that of today seems to be good for everything excepting aggravated spring fever.

Here And There

One of our interested readers among the older generation sends us the following communication which needs no comment:

"Editor, Here and There: As a reader of the Times-Mirror for many years, I am always interested in your column Here and There. It reminds me of the time in the late summer and fall of 1897 when the borough put in the sewers from the Conewago bridge, up as far as South street and out Oak street to the river. A man, his name was Park, from Williamsport, I don't remember his first name, anymore, had the contract—anyway he was the boss. I am the only one living, out of the four families from the little village of Glade Run, as it was known at that time, who worked there at $1.25 for a ten-hour day. I wonder if there are any others from around the town still living, who remember working there at the time? (Signed) Just a Reader."

This 'N That: Looks like the Glendoras and Warren Merchants will combine into an outstanding representative baseball team for Warren this season, under the management of Emmy Morrison, and playing under the name of the Merchants. . . . With Heinie Anderson, of this city, as business manager, and Bill Brown, also of Warren, playing on the team as catcher and utility infielder, local baseball fans will have plenty of reason to have eyes focused on the Erie Sailors this season. . . . More than 75 persons attended the dinner meeting of the Middle District Oil Producers' Association held in the Independent Aid Hall on the Oil City-Dempseytown road last week when H. W. Fuellhart, of Tidoute, a consulting engineer, spoke on "Optimum Injection Rates". . . . Starting this week approximately 650 production employees of the Aero Supply Mfg. Co. at Corry, are working a six-day week, to enable the plant to catch up on a backlog of orders and provide employees with more take-home pay. . . . William T. Collins, 64, of Johnson City, Tenn., who came to Pleasantville April 15 to settle the estate of a brother

Clarence, who died January 15, 1951, died suddenly at the Titusville City Hospital Friday evening. . . . There is every indication that one of the features of the Fourth of July parade this year will be a replica of lumber rafts that were a familiar scene in the river fifty to sixty years ago, with Ed Honhart, Pennsylvania avenue west, in charge of the project and supervising its construction on a low truck trailer. . . . Edward W. Maze, 76, retired Pennsylvania Gas Company employee, of Nansen, who was found dead Thursday evening near his truck where he had fallen while returning from a trout fishing expedition, worked as a pilot and rafterman on the big log rafts which were floated down the Clarion and Allegheny rivers at the turn of the century as far as Marion, O. . . . Don't forget, you are cordially invited to attend the Warren State Hospital annual open house program Friday from one to four p. m., in connection with the observance of Mental Health Week at the institution. . . . An unusually large number of petitions were placed in circulation by candidates as early as Saturday morning. . . . According to the Forest Republican, Warren Caravatta, 14-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Caravatta, Swissvale, who borrowed his father's 1950 car and left a note stating he had gone fishing, had breakfast in a Tionesta restaurant last Monday, when he was recognized by the proprietor, Mrs. Harvey Johnson, who phoned the boy's mother, but too late to apprehend him in that area, since he was picked up later in the week in Ontario, Canada.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

New Ceiling Price Rules Recall OPA's Headaches

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Price Stabilization Director Michael V. DiSalle admits with a grin that his new Manufacturers' Ceiling Price Regulation—CPR 22—may disturb some people. It's another of those masterful understatements for which the ex-mayor of Toledo is famous.

CPR 22 doesn't take effect till May 28. It will take the 75,000 U. S. manufacturing concerns affected nearly that long to find out what the new order will do to them and make adjustments to meet the new situation.

The new order will have no effect on major cost of living items like fresh meats and poultry, dairy products, fresh, frozen and canned seasonal fruits and vegetables, fuels and apparel. They are exempted from this order. New "tailored" orders on shoes and apparel are to be issued soon. Fixing prices on farm products will require changes in the law.

It will take some time for benefits of the new manufacturers' price ceiling order to trickle down to the consumer.

Eventually some effect should be felt on furniture, household appliances, hardware and a wide range of processed foods like baked beans, spaghetti, cereals, pretzels, peanut butter and dog food. They're all covered by the new order.

WHAT has happened in this broad segment of the economy since the Korean war began is pretty obvious. Manufacturers followed normal business practices. They added their increased costs for labor and raw materials onto their old prices. Instead of keeping their old dollars-and-cents profits margins, however, they added a percentage mark-up on their new cost figures. Prices soared.

So now comes the new regulation. It requires manufacturers to refigure their costs and mark-ups. It will allow some price increases for a few squeezed industries caught in the general price freeze order of Jan. 28.

But most manufacturers will have to roll back prices. Furthermore, increases in administrative, sales and advertising expenses won't be allowed as increased costs. And when the manufacturers discover these things, they're going to be "disturbed" as Mr. DiSalle puts it.

CPR 22 got off to a bad start through an advance announcement by Economic Stabilization Director Eric Johnston. This statement emphasized that the new government policy in granting price increases was to be based on regulation of profits. No price increases if the industry's dollar profits were over 85 per cent of the best three-year average in the 1946-49 period.

Attempts to regulate profits caused Chester Bowles more headaches and did more to wreck OPA than anything that happened in the last war. OPA tried to grant relief in hardship cases. It got 60,000 appeals petitions and never did catch up with them.

PRICE Director DiSalle has made a study of OPA's history of grief and he tried to avoid this headache. He insists that his new CPR 22 is not trying to control the profits of manufacturers. It is only trying to regulate price ceilings.

To try to control profits would mean putting a dozen or more price ceilings in one industry. Efficiency would be penalized. The least efficient firms with highest production costs would be given a guaranteed profit. And the public would never get any benefits.

There is still considerable difference of opinion in the Truman administration as to what price policy should be. From the union labor groups there is pressure for a tough policy. From the business groups, the pressure is to allow all price increases.

BEAVERS DROPPED BY PARACHUTE IN CALIFORNIA MOUNTAIN AREAS

DISABLED BELGIAN WAR VETS HOLD PARADE TO PROTEST LOW PENSIONS

Copyright, 1951, by Acme Newspictures

CASUALTY—An American jeep, riding in an armored column, was demolished by a mine in a Korean road, killing an infantry officer and wounding eight soldiers. Above, Lt. Col. Elmer Owens, Indianapolis, Ind., who had left the jeep just before the explosion, examines the wreckage while one of the wounded enlisted men, below, is evacuated on a stretcher to a behind-the-lines hospital unit.

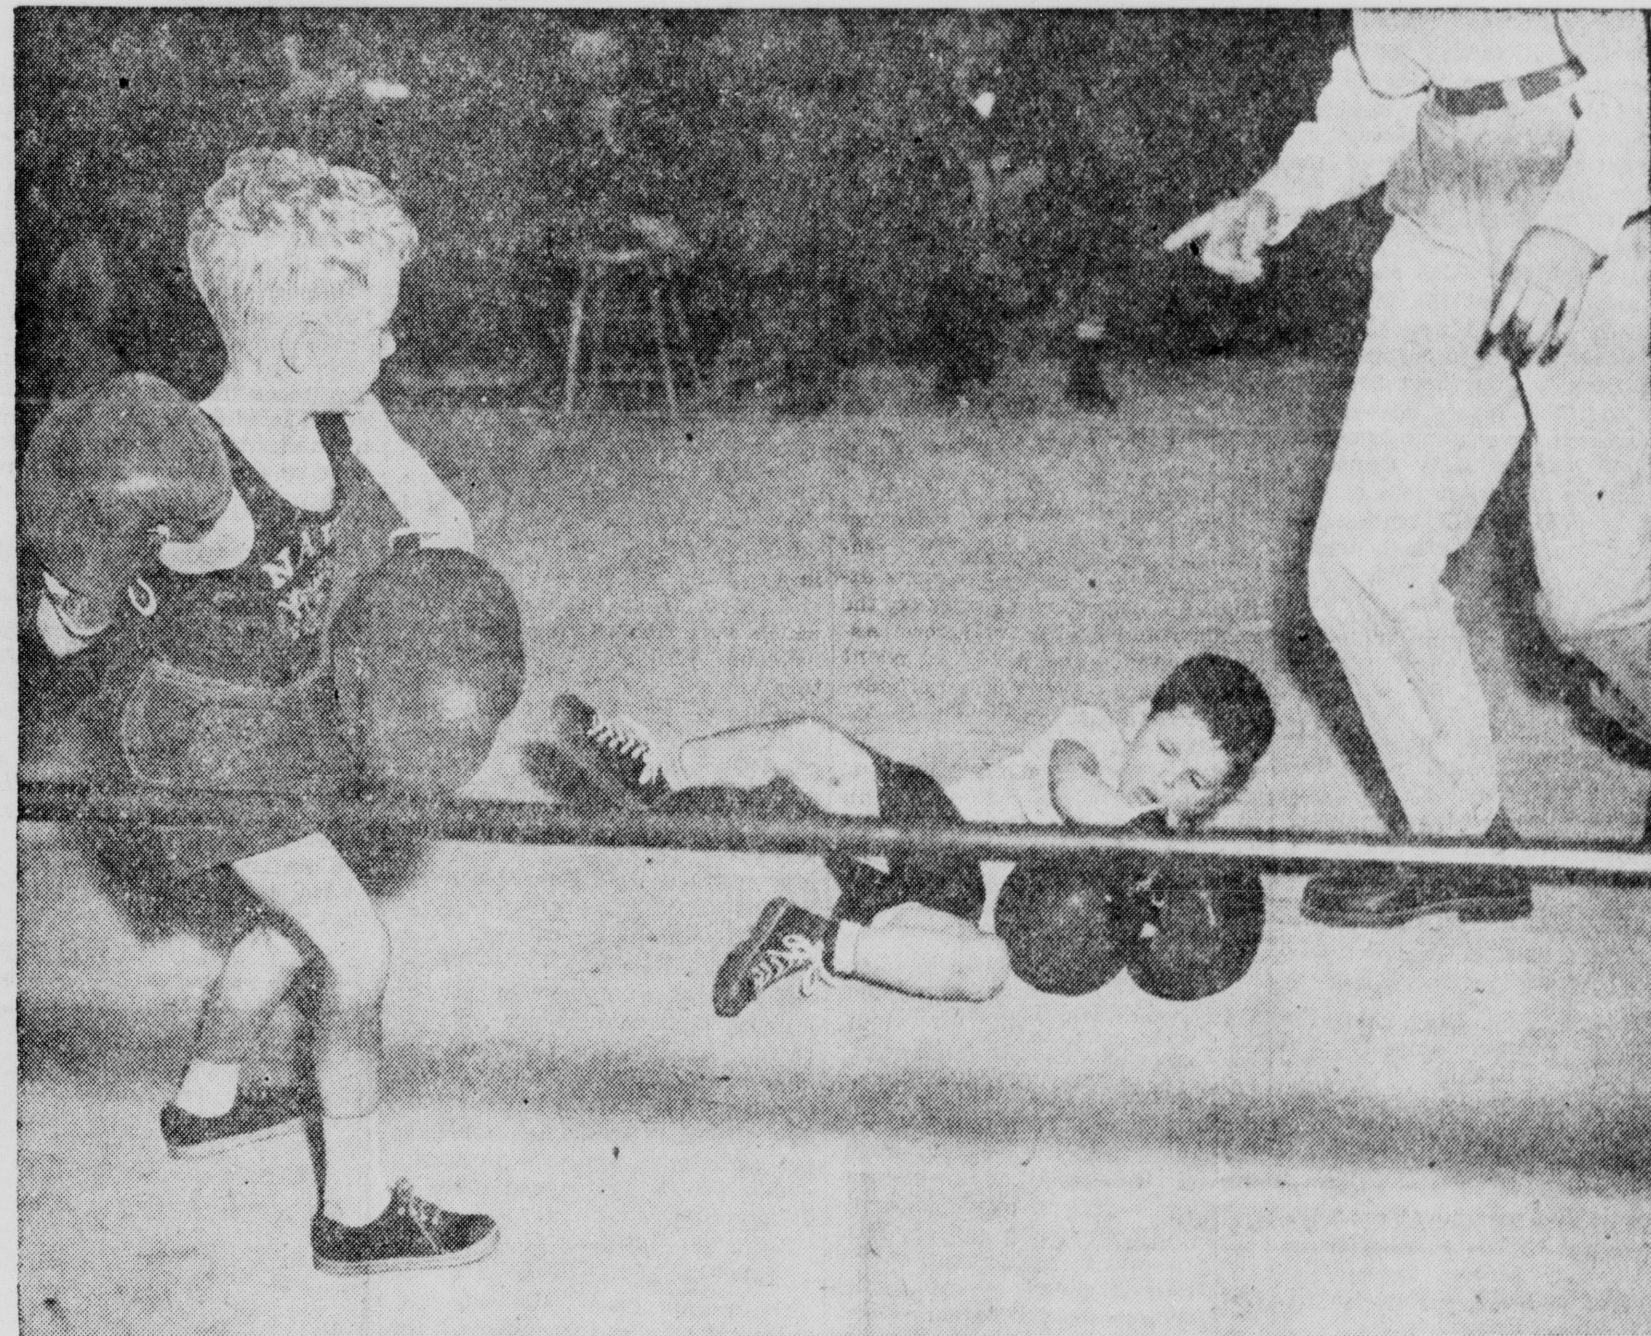

THREE-IN-ONE—Curvesome Jeane Williams has discovered that she can add a little something by subtraction. In New York she demonstrates a scarf dress, left, while in the center, after some ingenious deletions, she models a scarf sports outfit. Down to the basic elements, right, Jeane gives her final fashion hint by displaying the Bikini swim suit she had on all along.

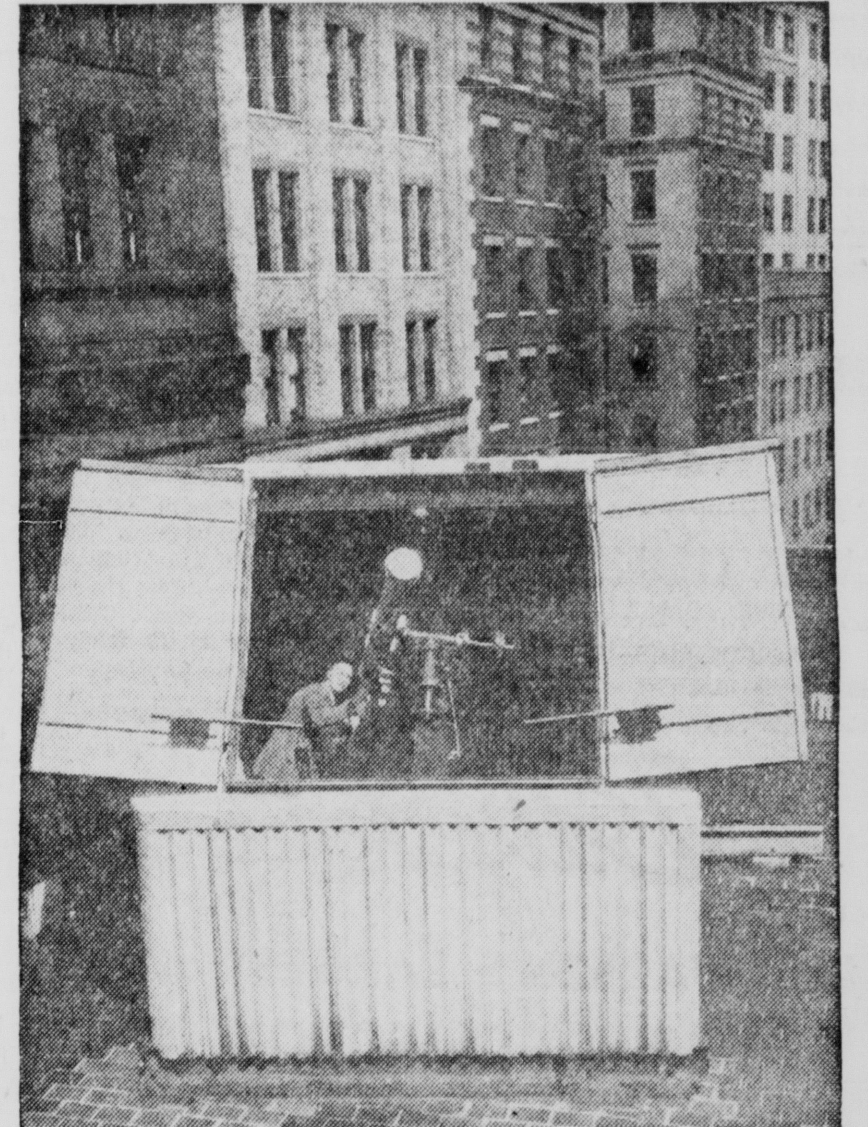

TROUBLE IN BRUSSELS—Disabled Belgian war vets are shown parading in Brussels in a demonstration for higher pensions. The banner they carry reads: "Money for non-veterans; nothing for war amputees." They later made a pile of their artificial limbs at the city's busiest intersection.

PASSING IN REVIEW—An armada of 72 F-84 Thunderjets, with vapor trails streaming behind them, streaks over the Neu-Biberg air base past the reviewing stand of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, center, at Augsburg, Germany. The general was on an inspection tour of Allied battle units in Western Germany.

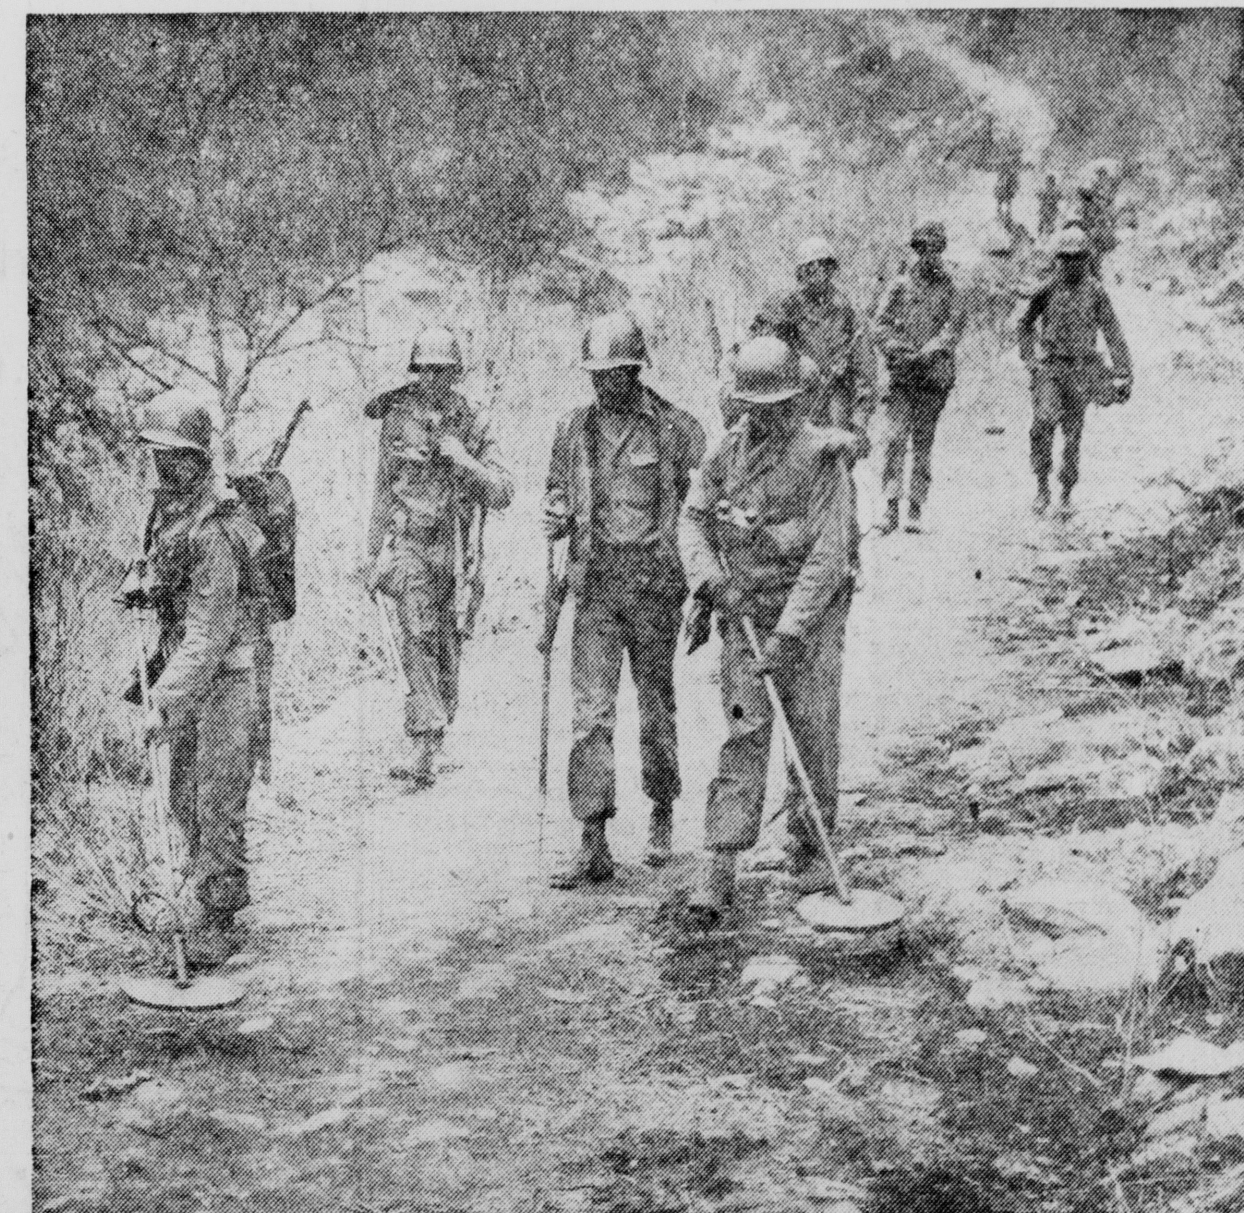

HITTING THE CANVAS—Peter Saballe, four, holds back that powerful right hand of his for another walloping blow as he watches the referee put the count to his slightly younger canvassed foe, Chris Hartle, during their 40-pound class bout in the 33rd annual Navy Junior Boxing finals at Annapolis, Md. The youngsters' brutal blows were softened by the big gloves.

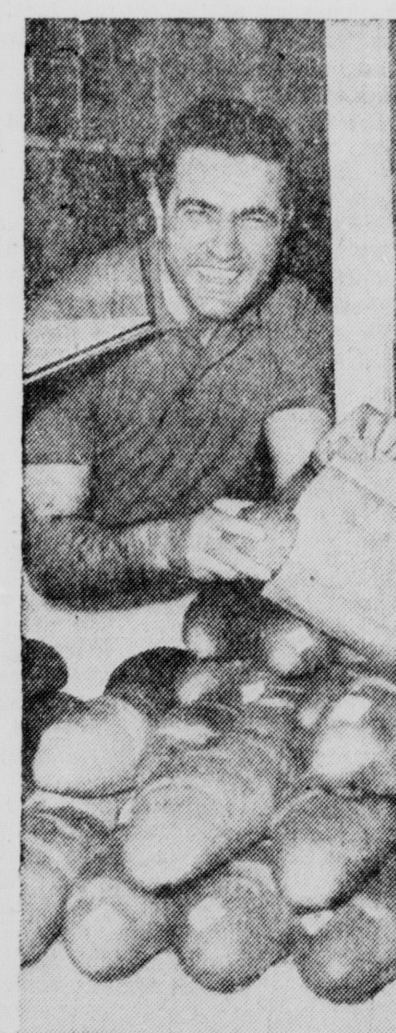

LOOKING UP—Astronomer and engineer John H. Nelson lines up a telescope for a daily solar observation from New York's financial district. As the result of a five-year study of sun spots and the planets, Nelson has discovered new evidence of the cause of magnetic storms on the earth's surface. He can forecast months in advance when and where the magnetic storms will occur.

GOING HOME—Danish actress Osa Massen presents a pretty, sea-going view as she sails from New York aboard the liner Independence. The voyage was the initial one for the new 29,500-ton liner which is the most modern American passenger vessel.

CLEANING UP—Members of a U.S. combat engineers battalion sweep up a winding trail for mines and booby traps in a rugged mountain area on the central front in Korea. This sector is held by British troops. (Acme photo by Staff Photographer Walter Lea.)

LOADING—Light-heavyweight champ Joe Maxim acts as counterpane in his self-owned delicatessen store in Cleveland before starting serious training for his title shot against Ezzard Charles on May 30. He's already showing signs of being a breadwinner.

NO EAGER BEAVER—Capt. Tate Miller, left, and Kramer Adams, both of the California Fish and Game Dept., show how to pack a 30-pound Golden beaver in San Francisco for a parachute jump. They're experimenting in dropping beavers by plane from farm areas where they're harmful to the mountains in which they can be useful damming the streams for year-round water supply.

All-Star Cast Is Predicted for Coming Warren Players' Production "Harvey"

Warren play-goers will literally be seeing stars—and we don't mean the bump-on-the-cranium kind—when they turn out May 10-11 for the Warren Players' production of "Harvey". An all-star cast will be on stage when the curtain opens. The Roving Reporter takes it from there:

Take the director, for instance. Jo Dickenson, who last fall produced a moving version of J. M. Synge's "Riders to the Sea," is the guiding genius in charge of the coming show. Mrs. Dickenson has been head-over-heels in Warren Players activities in the brief period of her residence here. She took the part of Karen in "Two Blind Mice." Before coming to Warren, she was a member of the Kittoclinny Players at Wilson College and of the Little Theater of Chambersburg. She has an extensive background in radio work including posts as program director in DuBois, station WCED, and Dayton, O., station WING. Yes, a director can be—indeed, must be—a star in her own right. Jo Dickenson is.

Then consider Henry Walker, Hank to you now these many years. Hank is, so he insists, just a novice in Warren Players. (He joined as recently as 1945.) His first role was in The Flying Gerardos and perhaps his most notable, Martin Vanderhoef in You Can't Take It With You. He has appeared as everything from an elevator man to a parson in John Loves Mary, Portrait in Black,

The Important of Being Ernest, Uncle Harry, and Pot Luck. In the coming production of "Harvey" he creates the character of Elwood P. Dowd, friend of mankind; also of rabbit-kind in the person of the invisible, giant bunny who is ever at his elbow and gives the play its name. You can count on an evening of stars and starlets in the duo of Henry and Harvey (for Harvey, too, though non-existent, is definitely in the stellar expanses.)

Lalla Steber, one of the eight charter members who organized Warren Players in 1930, is Warren's version of the famous Josephine Hull, Broadway star of the first magnitude. The character of Abby in Arsenic and Old Lace, Lalla's most memorable part, was originally created by Josephine Hull. So was Veta Louise Simmons, the character she portrays in "Harvey." During the two decades of Warren Players Lalla has appeared in so many plays that she actually can't remember them all. Those she counts most notable were: You Can't Take It With You (where, as in the current production, she and Hank carried the leads), Double Door, Bachelor Born, Mary the Third, and The Passing of the Third Floor Back.

"Is there a doctor in the house?" is a question usually metamorphosed into "Is There a Doctor in the Play?" for the benefit of S. Montgomery McClure, another of Players' earliest members. "If there's a doctor part," says Monty, "I always get the nod, with emphasis. I've been the doctor in so many plays I carry a flask of Sloan's Liniment in my hip pocket, just in case." In "Harvey" Monty is a most extraordinary doctor, indeed. He begins as a gruff, didactic psychiatrist. He ends, under the benign influence of Elmer and Harvey, as a poet (with incidental Freudian dreams). He has always, he confesses, been haunted by the fantasy of a maple tree outside of Akron, Ohio, himself under the bough thereof, with a case of beer in lieu of the jug of wine and a delectable blonde replacing the book of verses. Some of Monty's past triumphs have been in You Can't Take It With You (which, he says, might have been shortened to simply "You Can't Take It.") Three's A Family, The Flying Gerardos, and one of Players' earliest productions, Her Husband's Wife. George Cunningham, too, a veteran not only of Warren Players but of St. Joseph Players as well, is another versatile and accomplished performer. One of his favorite roles was the priest in "Jennie Kissed Me." He has appeared in Outward Bound, Front Page, I Like It Here, You Can't Take It With You, Margin for Error, Three Blind Mice, and others (as he infers) "too humorous to mention." He is accounted one of the club's most experienced actors. In "Harvey" he not only takes the part of the irascible Judge Omar Gaffney but serves as program advisor into the bargain.

Evelyn Donnelly also claims to be a newcomer but the facts are again her. She has appeared in: Hay Fever, The Importance of Being Ernest, You Can't Take It With You, and Jennie Kissed Me. She directed Two Blind Mice. In "Harvey" she is Betty Chumley. Paul Myers has made lots of hay in his brief Warren Players affiliation in The Male Animal, Jennie Kissed Me, and Hay Fever. He is Duane Wilson. Dorothy Irvine, who is Mrs. Ethel Chauvenet, has taken parts in The Male Animal and Pot Luck. She has been active in many backstage functions.

Real first-timers in the cast (they'll be veterans after the "Harvey" workout) are Sally Smith as Myrtle Mae Simmons, Teresa Fino as Nurse Ruth Kelly, and Harry Young as Dr. Lyman Sanderson, and Francis Morris as E. J. Lofgren.

★ RUTH MILLETT ★ Women Age Faster Than Men? Oh, Come Now, Your Honor

A LONDON magistrate recently overruled a mother who objected to her 18-year-old daughter marrying a man 10 years her senior on the grounds that he was too old for her.

Said the magistrate: "Everybody knows that a difference of 10 years is not much, because women age much quicker than men, and by middle-age the difference will not be perceptible."

That may have been true in Grandma's day, but it certainly isn't true today.

Women are out-living men today. Does that indicate that women "age much quicker than men"?

Women today work much harder than men at staying young looking. They diet more conscientiously, spend far more time on their looks, give more thought to seeing that their clothes are becoming, and seek youth in other ways. So if men have any natural edge on women in maintaining their youthful looks longer, women make up the difference by the attention they give to staying young.

DON'T AGE MENTALLY

FURTHERMORE, women today don't need to age mentally the way they often did in the days when a woman's job was finished once her children were grown.

Look at the white-haired women holding down jobs, doing community work, taking courses to learn new skills, leading busy social lives. They are finding the answer to staying young mentally.

There is nothing wrong in a girl falling in love with and marrying a man older than she. But the reason why such a marriage will probably work out all right isn't because she is going to age quicker than he is. You can bet your bottom dollar she isn't going to. For one of the advantages of marrying an older man—from a woman's point of view—is that the marriage probably offers security as well as love.

And women don't grow old fast on security. It gives them just that much more leisure and money to work at staying young.

Fontana - Andrea Wedding April 14 In Saint Joseph's

St. Joseph's church was the scene of a beautiful wedding Saturday, April 14, uniting in marriage Anna Andrea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Andrea, 1109 Pennsylvania avenue, west, Warren, and Salvatore (Sam) Fontana, son of Mrs. Joseph Fontana, 200 Newbold avenue, The Bronx, New York. The nuptial mass was read by Father Arthur Leon and Mary Scallie sang several selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in an ensemble of satin and chantilly lace, with cathedral train. Her veil of illusion net fell from a Dutch cap of the same lace and she carried calla lilies.

Her sisters, Grace Andrea and Carrie Stanko, wore pale yellow and aqua marquisette, respectively. The former carried a colonial bouquet of red roses, the latter had yellow roses. Clarine Fontana, Buffalo, niece of the bridegroom and flower girl, wore delicate blue satin and carried red roses.

The best man, Vedo Andrea, and the usher, Paul Stanko, were both of Warren. Louis Sardo, Buffalo, carried the rings on a heart-shaped pillow of white lace and satin.

Dinner for 40 guests followed at Bide-A-Wee Inn and the reception was held at the Andrea home. Out of town guests were from New York City, Brooklyn, Buffalo, The Bronx, Jamestown and Kenmore, N. Y.

Many from Warren Borough - County Receive Inspiration in PTA Sessions

Warren borough and county had an unusually large representation at the meeting of the Northwest District, Pennsylvania Congress of Parents and Teachers, held in Franklin High School.

The 58 delegates attending included 31 who went in a chartered bus provided by the Warren Community Council. In this group were women of the city council, delegates from each of the units represented in the council—East, Johnson, Lacy, McClintock, Seneca, and South street—and county units from Irvinedale, Washington, Lincoln, Clarendon, Pleasant and Washington unit of Sheffield.

Around 400 persons in all attended the convention, with two Franklin churches providing luncheons to accommodate the large group. The majority, with the distinguished guests, were served in the Presbyterian church, where Dr. Carl Whipple, Warren, a state vice president, gave the invocation. Pictures taken at the luncheon and high school building were used by the Franklin paper with a large amount of front page space given to the meeting.

Dr. Whipple and Mrs. Walter Mathyer, Warren, who is secretary of the district, participated in the sessions. Much information was acquired by delegates, along with inspiration for their home units. One of the highlights was the beautiful music of a group of 50 robed high school pupils.

The convention was based on the general theme, "Every Child a Responsible Citizen," with the following as some of the highlights brought out:

The need for religious training, along with a health program, is necessary; as well as occupation during hours not given to school.

Car Accidents Top Activities of Police During Weekend

(From Page One)

Police located a stolen car Saturday. The vehicle, a 1947 Plymouth coupe, is owned by Harold Smock, of Meadville, and was found by local officers parked on Fourth avenue. Thieves who took the car crossed the ignition wires to get it started, the theft occurring on Thursday in Meadville. Police said the car appeared to be undamaged.

Officers also investigated the report of another car thought to be stolen and parked on Willey street. They found the owner.

Other calls were of the usual routine nature. A fight was prevented at 11:15 p. m. Friday when two gladiators on Pennsylvania avenue, east, were about to square off as officers arrived on the scene. While returning from the above call, they found a drunk sleeping peacefully on the sidewalk. He was locked up.

Saturday, officers rounded up two boys and gave them a talk about damaging gardens on the east side. One arrest resulted from pacifying three family battles in various parts of town.

Also Saturday evening officers found four small youngsters left in an automobile, and investigation revealed the mother in a nearby taproom. She was advised to return to her brood and take a more motherly interest in her family.

"We don't know yet why the driver could not stop," Tichich continued. "There were reports, which we are unable to verify that the driver tried to ditch the bus in a slag dump on the side of the road but was prevented by an oncoming auto."

The bus ran about three-quarters of a mile before it came to the bottom of the hill. Tichich said Kraina knew he could not negotiate a sharp left hand turn. He chose to swing to the right and drive onto a residential street. Just as he turned, the left front end of the bus smashed into the retaining wall.

"A few more inches, just a few more inches, would have made all the difference in the world, Tichich declared.

Warren Squad Tied For Seventh Place In K. of C. Tourney

The Mineral Well Service team, one of 16 squads from the Warren Council, Knights of Columbus competing in the National K. of C. tenpin tournament at Erie over the weekend, led the local delegation with a nifty 2821 total (951-862-1008). The score was good enough for a tie for seventh place. Members of the squad and their three-game totals were: J. Thomas, 594; J. Salamon, 549; A. Randinelli, 599; S. Gerardi, 547; and M. Blech, 532.

The team firing was held at Berry's alley on Sunday, while doubles and singles events were run off Saturday at the Blue Ribbon lanes. Local bowlers were accompanied by their wives, and a special dance was held in their honor Saturday night. Special ceremonies also were held in which the Warren K. of C. Council was presented with the Grand Knight's Trophy, symbolic of the Eastern Officers tenpin championship. Grand Knight Sam Gerardi accepted the trophy on behalf of the Warren council.

Other five-man scores rolled by Warren teams were:
Lucia's Grocery—2769.
Morell's Shoes—2650.
East Side Fruit—2616.
Ideal Bakery—2515.
Papalia's—2472.
Virg Ann Flowers—2388.
Grutzy's Welders—2360.
Scalise Bros.—2351.
Five Dents—2163.
Allegheny Metal—2161.
Bill's Welders—2136.
Gibson's Funeral—2095.
Valone's Shoes—2037.
K. of C. Deluxe—1864.

In the doubles bracket, Paul Coppola and Dr. Jim Giunta posted an 1158 total to climb into seventh place. Paul was credited with a 202-191-191-584 series, while Doc fired a 191-205-178-574 series. Others hitting into the 1100 bracket were T. Fazio and F. Scalise with 1128 and Jim Thomas and C. Scalise with 1106.

Leading the Warren squad in the singles firing were T. Master-son with 203-217-215-635 and J. Salamon with 216-213-182-611.

BASEBALL MEETING LISTED WEDNESDAY
There will be a meeting of all former Glendora Coffee and Warren Merchants baseball players Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. business rooms. Any other players wishing to try out for places on the team are cordially invited to attend.

DOUBLES TOURNEY
Scores posted over the weekend in Thad Lawson's doubles tournament at the Arcade tenpin lanes were:

H. Gnage and W. Gnage, 1033.
G. Johnson and R. Carlson, 973.
R. Carlson and G. Johnson, 1050.
E. Wilson and J. Kifer, 971.

Industrial Softball League Meeting Set
A meeting of the Industrial Softball League will be held Wednesday night, May 2, at 7 o'clock in the WMCA. It will announce today by League President Donald H. Mills.

Teams interested in enrolling in the loop this year are asked to have representatives at the meeting.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
Batting—Ray Coleman, Browns—his eighth inning single scored run that snapped a 3-3 tie as Browns defeated the Indians, 6-3, in the first game. His four hits helped St. Louis win the second game, 13-11.

Pitching—Ed Lopat, Yankees—blanked the Senators, 4-0 with five hits for his second straight shutout and his third victory without a defeat.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE
The triangular track meet between Bradford, Kane and Warren slated at Bradford for Saturday, May 5, has been switched to Friday, May 4 in order not to conflict with the official opening of the Pony League campaign in Bradford on that date. Because of this the Warren-Corry dual meet scheduled for the fourth has been moved to May 8 at Beatty field.

Chapter 8
AS Ruth rode away, fear was mixed with the anger she felt. The death of Shorty McCabe had stirred Jeff Payne deeply, and Ruth sensed that she was a man to be feared.

Denton's murder had caused Ruth many sleepless nights, for she knew that her brother Buddy had been on the Double D range about the time Dan must have been killed. She had been fishing near the cabin in the hills above the ranch and had seen Buddy ride along the trail which led to the Double D and she had guessed that he was riding to meet Diana Denton. A quiescent dislike of Diana Denton had immediately turned to passionate hatred. Buddy was only a boy; too nice a boy to be embroiled in an affair with a married woman.

She descended the shoulder of hill and entered the Starr ranch yard. Buddy joined her at the corral. He said "You sure had nerve riding over there alone. Find out what happened?"

"Yes," She swung from the saddle and faced him over the back of her pony. "Shag Dolan and his bunch ran off some steers and killed Shorty McCabe. Buddy, Dad didn't tell Shag to do that, did he?"

"What if he didn't? Shag's workin' for us just the same. And he'll take care of that uppity Jeff Payne, too. He got it all planned."

A strange panic seized her. "Buddy, don't hold out. What is it?"

He glanced about him, then spoke in a lowered voice. "You keep this to yourself now. Shag run the cows through Four-Mile Canyon. He left a plain trail and Payne'll follow it sure as shootin'. Shag'll have a man posted at each end, up on top of the walls where Payne can't get him. Mr. Payne'll simply ride in and not come out."

"Buddy, no!"

"Why not? This is war. Knock off Payne and the Double D's without a leader. Good strategy."

Ruth bent and pretended to work with the cinches. Her heart was like a lump of lead. Buddy could talk all he wanted to about this being war, but it wasn't her kind of war.

Ruth did not off-saddle; she leaned against the corral rails and looked through them and across the creek towards the line shack. Three riders were coming up the valley at a high lope and one of them was leading an extra horse.

Jeff Payne was advancing to meet them. She remembered him as he was that day he had stopped at her cabin, tall, neat, with brown curly hair and smiling eyes. She had liked him until she found that he was to be Diana Denton's foreman.

And now they were going to ambush him, murder him. She climbed to the top rail in order to watch what he did.

Jeff stood up and waved an arm and they waved in answer and altered their course so as to meet him as he strode down the slope. They pulled up sharply and one of them asked, "Where's Shorty?" We picked up his horse on the way out."

"Shorty's dead," He told them of finding Shorty's body and then of the missing cattle.

The cowboy swore. "Let's start trackin' 'em right now."

"I'll do the tracking. We're the only ones on the spread. Starr might have pulled that raid just to draw us away. You three stick around where you can watch them. I dug a grave for Shorty up on that mound. We'll bury him and then I'll be on my way. I took his gun. I aim to use it on his killer."

He rode warily, with his Winchester across his knees, his eyes stabbing at the outcroppings of rock on both sides. He felt a tiny prickling at the base of his skull; this might well be a trap into which he was riding. As he neared the far end of the canyon he doubled his caution.

A rifle cracked somewhere near the top of the rock wall and Jeff heard the ring of the bullet as it passed over him. He jerked his horse to a halt, whipped up the rifle and fired at the wisps of smoke which rose lazily above a clump of bowlders. He saw dust fly where his bullet struck but did not catch sight of the marksman who had fired at him.

And then through the fissure came five horsemen, spreading out as soon as they gained the wider part of the canyon. All five were shooting. The man on Jeff's left was Shag Dolan and Jeff whipped up the Winchester again and let fly a shot. He saw dirt spurt from the canyon wall and knew he had missed by a foot. And then another bullet from the top of the canyon snatched at his hair and he knew that this rifleman, firing from a stationary position, would not miss again.

He wheeled his horse and sent it scudding along the creek bank, half expecting to see more riders enter at the end toward which he was racing. Nothing to do but ride fast and gain the protection of the narrow slit.

He heard the snap crack of the rifle above the bounding of his pony's hoofs and caught the whisper of lead as it passed close to him. He knew that the shot had come from ahead of him but he had seen no tell-tale puff of smoke. He glanced upward as the rifle cracked again. The marksman was firing from the top of the right wall and Jeff could see the cluster of rocks which sheltered him. And there was nothing he could do about it but ride and pray.

Abruptly the lead ceased coming his way. He could hear the steady crack of a rifle but it had a more distant sound. He looked up quickly and saw a man break from the protection of the rocks and scamper along the edge of the cliff.

Jeff let out a whoop of triumph and spurred straight for the canyon entrance. He flashed into the crevice, glanced over his shoulder and saw Shag and his men converging towards the narrow fissure. He halted his horse and dropped to the ground.

He fired over the horse's back and his first shot struck a horse and sent it plunging headlong, spilling the rider. After that there was confusion, with horses milling about near the entrance and men shouting and cursing. They moved about so rapidly that Jeff had no stationary target. Then somehow they got straightened out and the whole five surged back into the canyon, the one who had been unhorsed running like a frightened rabbit. They rounded the shoulder of the rock and were lost to Jeff's sight.

Jeff said, "Then he mopped his forehead. Then he reloaded the rifle magazine and got back on his horse. He rode thoughtfully and wonderingly towards the valley. Somebody had befriended him; somebody had routed the marksman who was leisurely lining his sights on him like a man in a shooting gallery. One of his own crew, probably; one who knew the country, who had sensed the trap into which Jeff was riding and had climbed the cliff in time to save him. Disobedience of orders, of course, but what could he do?

NOTICE is hereby given by the School District of Warren, Pennsylvania, that the Board of School Directors of said District intends to adopt at a regular meeting to be held on Monday, May 7, 1951, at 7:30 P. M., day-light time, at the High School in said Boro, a resolution pursuant to the Act of Assembly of 1949, P. L. 898, imposing a tax of $5.00 upon each resident or inhabitant of the Boro of Warren who has attained the age of 21 years on or before January 1 of the taxable calendar year, to be paid into the general funds of said District; the same to be paid and collected as provided in said resolution. JACOBY ON BRIDGE

HERE ARE RULES FOR N. T. BID

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service "Stayman's book, 'Expert Bidding', may be wonderful for good players," writes a Cleveland fan, "but what about dubs like me? I'm not a good player and probably never will be one, although I like the game and play it often. What can you tell my kind of player about no-trump bidding?"

The opening one no-trump bid shows a hand with balanced distribution (no very long or very short suits) with strength in at least three suits (usually in all four suits).

The total strength of the hand is at least an ace and a queen more than average and at most two aces more than average. Remember that an average hand contains one ace, one king, one queen, one jack, and one ten.

The reason for having such rigid limits on the strength of the bid is that the opener shows his entire hand in one bid. This makes it easy for his partner to judge what the combined hands are worth.

In the hand shown today, South has average strength in diamonds and clubs. The extra strength in the majors gives him just what he needs to bid one no-trump. North correctly judges that the combined hands are worth a game.

West opens spades, and South must refuse to take the ace of spades until the third round of

If South makes the mistake of winning the first or second round of spades, he will be set. South cannot win nine tricks without giving up the lead, and then the opponents will take the rest of the spades.

Break in Huge Tank Causes Temporary Shut Down of Sheffield Bottle Plant

Sheffield, April 30 — Approximately 200 employees of the Pennsylvania Bottle company will be furloughed from their jobs the next ten days or so due to a break Saturday morning in the walls of the huge tank of molten glass at the factory. Workmen were in the process of repairing the tank at the time the break occurred and the molten glass poured into the basement below.

Some of the workmen are being employed to repair the tank and chip out the mass of solidified glass which lies about two feet thick under the building. The machinery also is being checked and repaired during the lay-off period. L. H. Keller, plant manager, commended the Sheffield's volunteer fire department for its quick action which prevented the blaze from spreading into the main plant when several drums of oil were set fire by the intense heat from the molten glass pouring out of the tank.

Incomplete figures indicate the benefit auction, rummage and bake sale held Friday and Saturday in Sheffield would net between $500 and $600. The event was for the benefit of the Sheffield Civic Association's Memorial playground.

A program of Pennsylvania folk songs will be presented by Mrs. P. J. Finerty when the Senior Woman's club meets at 8 p. m. tonight at the home of Mrs. Frank Handeyside.

Mrs. F. E. Shick, Mrs. Fred Straubel and Mrs. L. O. Eisenhauer will serve the refreshments. Sheffield's Boy Scout financial drive is nearing completion with only a few contributions yet to be reported. The local drive chairman, Robert Dunn, reported that contributions had passed the $500 mark.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the First Methodist church.

Devotions will be led by Mrs.

Mackenzie's Column

The resignation of Aneurin Bevan, Britain's fiery left-wing minister of labor, has precipitated a political crisis which may have far-reaching consequences. This dramatic move might easily result in the downfall of Prime Minister Attlee's Socialist government and the return of the conservative party to power under Winston Churchill. However, I believe Bevan's project cuts a good deal deeper than that. Bevan's long range aim would seem to be to capture control of the Labor (Socialist) party which, under the moderate leadership of Attlee, has represented a rather conservative type of socialism. Bevan would swing the party further left.

an orthodox socialist, on a constitutional basis. In explaining his resignation Bevan declared he quit because Britain has been "dragged too far behind the wheels of American diplomacy." He is bitterly opposed to America's armament plans and has protested the arms expenditure in Britain's new budget. He declared that the country's three year $13,160,000,000 arms program "cannot be achieved without irreparable damage to the economy of Great Britain and the world."

Bevan objected to cutting free medical services in favor of the rearmament program. He declared that the Socialists should pay for rearming by soaking the rich in taxes, and not deprive the public of the free spectacles and false teeth he instituted as minister of health.

The big showdown may mark the beginning of the end of the Attlee government. It certainly may be expected to give a better idea of how far Socialism is to go in England. In that sense, it will clear a rather murky political atmosphere.

One thing you can count on when making jam or jelly is plenty of fruit stains on towels and kitchen surfaces. Clorox removes stains quickly and easily from white and color-fast cottons and linens and from drainboards, sinks, tile, linoleum, enamel. You'll find Clorox handy, too, for disinfecting and deodorizing musty jars and glasses before using.
